APPROX 150 RUMS & COUNTING

CUBAN CIGARS

Our team of experienced bartenders are dedicated to their craft, expressing their passion with great skill and creativity.

Words from the Back Bar

The 'Old Fashioned' is the eponymous cocktail; a simple three ingredient drink developed in the 19th century.

Initially created with the simple combination of sugar, bitters and spirit, it has since proliferated into hundreds of variations. This development symbolises our approach to cocktails; the use of simple recipes grounded in the classics.

Ours are recipes that are approached and re-imagined with a level of innovation that comes from a deep understanding of the ingredients at play.

We do so by tasting and evaluating both spirits and modifiers. Whether that be through actively trying products and combinations, or by blending aromatics in order to uplift flavours and discover new combinations that bind together what may initially be perceived as incongruous or clashing tastes.

Each bartender's approach to this method is different, with some focusing on blending syrups and aromatics, others place their focus on understanding the flavours imparted on spirits by their aging methods and the nuances of various distilling processes.

As bartenders, we are incredibly lucky to work with ingredients that are consistent. Our spirits are products that have been meticulously crafted by distilleries from all around the world, and by people who share the same passion for the craft as we do. The industry is constantly changing and expanding.

New distilleries are built at a higher rate than any time in the past. The beauty of distillation however comes from the drive of the individuals producing the spirits, and as such standards are always kept the high, regardless if the distillery has emerged within the previous 18 months or if it has a rich history of production.

As an example, our bar shelf currently holds both spirits released by 'new world' distilleries from the 2000s, and ones that have been in continuous production since 1670. To us, it's all quality juice (booze) that we can work with.

Though one will usually go to a bar to relax and turn off their mind, sometimes one wants to turn it on. For the latter case, the bartenders here are always willing to teach their craft, have a conversation and play around with ideas. If you ask the right questions, we will express our genuine excitement.

Ask George to make you his 'Ti Punch', Juanita for her 'Smokey Mushroom stir-down', Lisa for her Mai-Tai, or for that matter, anyone for their perfect blend of rums for a 'Daiquiri' – each one will be a unique reflection of the person producing it and each bartender will swear that his or her variant is the best. Hopefully you will share our sentiment.

Making the simple complicated is commonplace; making the complicated simple, awesomely simple, that's creativity. Happy drinking!

Our beautiful offspring, the Smooth Buttery Boy.

Need a Suggestion?

Try our Smooth Buttery Boy.

When developing the flavour profile for the 'Smooth Buttery Boy', we began with the name, and worked in reverse.

It started as an in house joke between staff members, one that referenced our somewhat forgetful and hazy minds early in the morning, a time of day when most bar tools and drinks are simplified to their appearance or use, then affixed with the word 'boy' or 'boi' as a term of endearment.

Some examples of this are our house spice mix which is affectionately known as 'spicy boy', our Winchesters as 'stumpy boys', and our butter syrup, the 'buttery boy'.

We started with the cold butter syrup – a blend of tea, cacao and cinnamon are infused into our house made pimento dram. We then lengthened it with water, unsalted butter and cane sugar.

These flavours were subsequently married with Ratu Spiced Rum and dash of Ratu Rum Liqueur. The offspring of which was our beautiful 'Smooth Buttery Boy'.
